Green stuff of all kinds is lower, but strawberries, oranges and apples, which are scarce, ruled firm at quotations. The coal market has a hardening tendency, but as yet local dealers have not advanced prices. The seed market is rather quiet; but not more so than is usual in June. Seed merchants have enjoyed a big | @2.70 trade all the spring and are contented with taking matters easier. There was no change in prices during the week. The weaker tone to the wheat market is beginning to be felt in flour, and if continued another weak lower prices for flour may be realized. However, flour is the cheapest article on the market, taking into considerahide market is dull and prices are easy Fruits and vegetable of home growth are

ABOLITION OF ADAM.

Protest Against Trying to Efface Him Grains Close Higher but Easy-General from First Place.

Atlanta Constitution. There is evident need for some enterprising party to organize a grand order of the defenders of Adam. The theologians of the country are getting all at sevens and sixes again over the question whether Adam was a sure enough man or only a myth of the superstitious creation expounders of the first eras of doubt and debate. Possibly it is not part of the privileges of a ayman to cut into the discussion. Nevertheless. the distinction between theologian and layman being an afterthought and purely professional, we venture our protest against any endeavor to efface Adam from the first place in the genealogy of the human race. Evidently the race had to have a beginning somehow and somewhere, and we are of the opinion that most people are satisfied to have Adam stand godfather for the tribe. He is certainly a better sort of federal head than any anthropoidal chimpanzee that Darwin or any other scientist has ever advertised to us. Even if he did make the alleged mistake about the apple in Eden he did his best afterward, as far as anybody knows, to make things right by working hard and doing his best to keep the commandments. Unless somebody can get back of Adam and find some person who in all points is better credentialed to become the father of the human race there will not appear to most people any good reason to push him off the front seat and consider that all of us, like Topsy, "just growed."

We stand for Adam, let who will take the part of the monkeys! No More "Flat Wheels."

Harper's Weekly.

The truth is that, so far as human knowledge goes and so far as science has been able to acquire trustworthy data, there is as much authority for believing that Moses told the truth about the creation of Adam as to believe that mankind evoluted from a ring-tailed baboon in

Yet another nerve-racking device of modern progress seems doomed. We need no longer ride on pounding trolley cars; the flat wheel which can, under proper auspices, exert such a pleasing concussion on the trolley rider's nerves as it goes thumping along, is an anachronism, so to speak. At the last meeting of the New York Chemical Society a representative of the German Thermite Company gave an exhibit of one of the most interesting discoveries, or rather processes, of recent years. It was simply the ium when burned with some substance rich in exygen. Its scientific value lies in the fact that by this means it is possible to obtain the highest temperatures yet reached by man, exceeding, it seems, the temperature of the electric arc. The practical value of the Goldschmidt process lies in the fact that it affords a portable supply of intense heat in any desired quantity. and that, for example, a boy can carry round a can of it and weld tram rails or broken steamer shafts or other trifles in place. All that is needful is to jacket the shaft or rail or what-The: Hope, 6%c; Linwood, 7%c; Lonsdale, soever with the aluminium mixture and touch Peabody, sign, Pepperell, 3-4, 20c; Pepperell, it off with a match. So intense is the hext generated that a huge steel casting will melt to run like water in a few seconds and the most refractory one turned to liquid. The application of the process to the welding of street rails is, of course, but an incident, but it is a boon. By this means rails may be welded together as Great Falls J. Sc. UNION STOCKYARDS, INDIANAPO-

LIS, June 7 .- Cattle-Receipts, 200; shipments fair. There has been a liberal supply of cattle here this week, the total indicating an increase of fully 1,700 over last week, about 1,200 over the same week a year ago and 3,400 over the corresponding week two years ago. Thus far this year the receipts are 21,500 larger than the same period last year. There has been a very satisfactory market for the choice corn-fed cattle at good advance in prices over the average a the close of last week, and some sales th week were the highest recorded in this market in twenty years. The supplies of cattle that were up to the standard in quality and flesh were small, and offerings sold promptly at current prices. It is probably safe to say that the strictly choice stock advanced at least 25c per 100 lbs. Butcher cattle of medium quality did not show as much strength as the better grades, but at the close of the week were selling more satisfactory than at the close of last week There was a continued discrimination against half finished and grass-fed cattle, and prices were very irregular, but the average was the lowest it has been thus far this season. The request for fleshy feeders of good quality was equal to the supply and steady prices prevailed, but common stockers were neglected all the week and, if possible, were lower than they have been recently. The extreme sales this week were $7.50 for steers, $6.25 for heifers $5.50 for cows, $5.50 for bulls and $7 for calves. The receipts to-day were a little larger than the average at this time in the slight increase in the receipts, but no imweek, and on account of the trade having provement has been noted in the quality been well supplied yesterday there was little or no competition and the market was | yesterday. Thus far smaller than the same period last year. ers bought a total of 26,718, against 19,117 the preceding week and 28,577 the same week a year ago. During the same period the shipments were only 3,411, against 3,271 the preceding week and 6,068 the corresponding week a year ago. On account of the increase in supplies with no improvement in the demand from outside sources, | there was naturally a lower movement in values this week, and it has been impossible to maintain prices in their usual relative position with other markets. Packers had to be depended upon to make the market, and considering the very limited opposition they had it must be acknowledged that they were reasonable buyers. One house alone bought an average of nearly 4,300 per day, or nearly 1,000 more than the total shipments for the week. On account of the scarcity of prime heavy hogs, such as usually sell at extreme prices, there were not may sales at top figures, and this, of course, made the average look lower than it would ordinarily. There was a flat break of 10c at the beginning of the week, after which the market was steady, but on Wednesday there was a further decline of 10@15c. On Thursday the market was strong, on Friday there was a further reduction of 10c, and at the extreme close of the week, with a rally of 5@10c in prices, the average was 10@15c lower than the beginning of the week. The highest price paid during the week was $7.35, both at the beginning and at the close. The receipts to-day were nearly 500 smaller than a week lower; yearlings, 1/0 1/2c lower; lambs, 1/0 1/2c ble improvement in the demand from outside sources, but packers were inclined to be a little more liberal in their views, and with quite a falling off in the receipts salesmen succeeded in regaining 5@10c of the loss sustained in prices earlier in the week. Notwithstanding there was little opposition between buyers the trading was reasonably active, and the supply was exhausted in good season at current prices. Sales ranged from $6.65@7.35 and were largely above $6.80. Quotations: Common to choice medium and

Sheep-Receipts, 100; shipments none. The marketing of sheep and lambs this week has not been really liberal, but about 300 more were received than last week and 200 more than the same week a year ago and the corresponding week two years ago. Thus far this year the receipts are about 11,000 larger than the same period last year. The supplies have been just about large enough to meet the demands from both local and outside sources, and fat stock sold rather promptly throughout the week | The Scientist Holds Some Very Sound and there was very little or no fluctuation in prices. At times the market showed a little more strength, but not enough that quotations could be advanced. The demand for ordinary sheep and lambs was small all week. Consequently it was more or less and interestingly on the subject of the origin and difficult to transfer the consignments, and | development of music, and some of his early prices were more irregular, but probably not quite as high as they were at the close of last week. Extreme prices this week were $6.65 for lambs and $5 for sheep. About the usual number arrived for the market to-day, and, as there were not enough to invite competition from all buyers, the trading was a little quiet, but quotably steady prices were secured compared with those current for equal kinds yesterday. The trend of the market has been upwards all week, until the figures on the very best corn-fed cattle have been dianapolis for over twenty years. The demand has shown no change, holding steady for the desirable cattle, but has been rather uncertain as to the common and medium and gymnastics. The dominant feeling, he says class of stuff. The best inquiry is for good butcher stock, but no such difficulty in disposing of anything has been experienced as there was last week. VITALITY OF THE ADVERTISER.

Why He Is Apt to Succeed in the Family Newspaper.

A good story is told of an American army officer in the Philippines, says the Salt Lake City Tribune, who chiefly has been interested to receive his home newspaper in order to know who, among his former friends, and especially among the business men in his own home, are alive; for he judges of their vitality by the siming to 15 to 25 cents. > Harper's Weekly. For the sober encouragement of people who have reached later middle age, a famous correspondent of the British Weekly has written a letter presenting examples of great deeds acomplished after the haif-century mark had been reached. He mentions Lincoln, who became President at fifty-two; Milton, who published 'Paradise Lost' at fifty-nine: Handel, who began his oratorios at fifty-seven; Samuel Johnson, who wrote his "Lives of the Poets" at sixtyeight; Samuel Richardson, who attained success after fifty; and so on through a cheerful compilation of similar optimistic evidence. This is pleasant reading for young and old-for the young because it confirms their own trust in the future; for their elders because it renews a hope that maybe was about to lose a shade of its glow and warmth. To the latter it recalls the inspiring example of the old gentleman who studied Hindostanee at the age of eighty, and the old lady of seventy who took up fine embroidery because her eyes had begun to fail and she wished to exercise them. Bless the old people, of whom

There is often something touching in the allusions of aged men to the place of seniority which they realize that they have come to occupy.
